

Retracing route of London terror attacker - BBC News VIDEO

23 mar 2017

At this point it was just an _____ car driving round a roundabout in Waterloo. But it was about to enter the _____, Westminster Bridge, drive onto it and start killing people. And it's here that he does eventually go on the _____, mount it and hitting his first _____, just at the top of these steps. He puts his foot to the floor _____ fast and hard. It is someone else just about here, but it's not until the _____ of the bridge when he's going at his fastest and about to inflict his maximum _____.

We're in the centre of the bridge. It's taken about forty, fifty seconds to walk here, it took him about seven or eight seconds to drive here, and at this point he starts to hit a lot more people. And it's at this point that the CCTV _____ show a woman falling over into the _____. Did she jump? Well, one _____ has told us that that she was knocked into the Thames by the _____.

By this point it's become pretty _____ to people on the bridge what's going on. Many of them thankfully have _____ to get out of the way. And yet just up here is the scene of some of the worst _____. He drives along the pavement here but he knows that he has to get back on the _____ so he hits another couple of people and then nicks off into the _____ lane.

And these _____ are the reason why he knew he had to get off the pavement. _____, he swung pass it, carried on down that cycle lane there and then _____ an immediate left, slamming hard into the _____ around the Parliament. That's where his journey ended.

Vocabulary

Fast and hard – niezmiennie

Inflict – wyrządzić (krzywdę), zadać (cios)

Footage – materiał filmowy

Nick off – wybiegać, wypadać

Swing – swung-slung – oscylować, zakołysać, bujać się